Mayoral aide sued over past

Sheila Paxton. Federal government seeks to recoup funds defrauded in decade-old scheme

A senior aide to both Mayor Rob Ford and Deputy Mayor Norm Kelly admitted almost a decade ago to participating in a kickback scheme that defrauded the federal government of hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Sheila Paxton, who moved to Kelly's office when city council stripped Ford of his powers and budget, testified that from late 1998 to early 2003, she funneled grant proposals to a friend in the HRDC — now Employment and Social Development Canada — who approved them in exchange for secret payments.

She was part of a larger scheme that investigators allege defrauded the government of more than $3 million and resulted in charges against 30 people. Paxton, who co-operated with investigators and testified against her co-conspirators, was never charged.

Now, a decade later, she and a co-defendant are being pursued by the federal government, which has filed a lawsuit to try to recoup more than $330,000.

"It has absolutely nothing to do with city hall and nothing to do with my current job," said Paxton.

"Maybe (the Crown) just decided that I wasn't the person that perpetrated it and that maybe what I was doing was correct: my actions that I took and the ways I tried to stop it," she said. "Maybe they found that I was more of an innocent party than a guilty party. Have you ever thought of that?"

Coun. Mark Grimes says he was not aware of Paxton's past when he first hired her at city hall in 2008.

Cub christened Humphrey

Meet Humphrey. CONTRIBUTED

Four months after his birth, a polar-bear cub at the Toronto Zoo finally has a name — Humphrey.

The name was announced Thursday morning following votes submitted by more than 14,000 people in a "Name the Cub" contest at the zoo.

There were six names to choose from in balloting conducted from Feb. 11 through March 3 — Humphrey, James, Lorek, Orson, Searik and Stirling.

Humphrey has also been given an additional Inuit name — Piujuq (Piu), meaning "good and nice."

Duelling ombudsmen?

Toronto doesn't need two ombudsmen to field complaints from citizens upset by how they've been treated by the civic bureaucracy, councillors say.

Toronto has had its own ombudsman since 2009, but Thursday's provincial announcement extends the provincial ombudsman's reach to Ontario municipalities, including Toronto.

Members of city council say they're unsure of the province's intent and are seeking clarity.

Disabled woman wins rights case over pay

Discrimination. Terri-Lynn Garrie saw only $1.25 per hour while packaging wine bottles at Janus Joan Inc.

An intellectually disabled St. Catharines woman who was paid just $1.25 an hour as a labourer at a packaging company for 10 years has won her discrimination case before Ontario's Human Rights Tribunal.

In the groundbreaking ruling filed last week, the tribunal awarded Terri-Lynn Garrie $142,124 in lost wages, $19,613 in lost income for discriminatory termination and $25,000 in compensation for "injury to her dignity, feelings and self-respect."

It also urges the province's human-rights commission to determine if the practice of paying less than minimum wage is widespread and if it is, to advise the province on how to stop it.

The ruling is believed to be the first time any tribunal or court has looked at the issue of discriminatory pay for people with intellectual disabilities.

"I find that, objectively, the respondent's discriminatory pay practice was a serious violation of the (Ontario Human Rights) Code," Tribunal vice-chair Ken Bhattacharjee wrote in his Feb. 28 ruling.

"Minimum-wage legislation ... tells us something about how we perceive self-worth and human-worth," he said, quoting University of Alberta law Prof. Gerald Robertson.

"Regardless of who you are, regardless of what you do for a job, regardless of how well you do that job, we think that this is the minimum any self-respecting human being should receive if they are working."

Garrie was "thrilled" with the decision.

"I'm very happy (the case) is over and done with," said the 45-year-old woman, who "loved" her job packaging wine bottles for export at Janus Joan Inc.

"I don't want to see this happen again to anyone else," Garrie said in a phone interview from her parents' home in St. Catharines.

Janus Joan Inc. owner Stacey Szuch refused to participate in three separate tribunal proceedings since the case began in 2009.

The Torstar News Service was unable to reach Szuch by phone, and an email address the tribunal has used to communicate with her is no longer working. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

What's a 180th birthday without cake?

The celebration of Toronto's 180th birthday on Thursday was as low-key as birthdays come. Yes, there was an official proclamation of the day posted at city hall. And Deputy Mayor Norm Kelly, third from left, handed out cake with other officials. But there was no city-wide press release heralding the event and Kelly told those present that the cake was an ad hoc measure, hastily organized and paid for with money out of his own pocket. The proclamation only came about after Coun. Paul Ainslie poked around and found out the city wasn't planning a celebration.

Cops bust 'legal' drugs company, seize products

Trippy. Four people charged in investigation into Izms and Purepillz

JESSICA SMITH CROSS

Toronto police arrested four people in connection with a pair of companies that purport to sell "legal" drugs — Izms and PurePillz — and charged them with offences under the criminal code and controlled drug and substances act.

Between March 2 and 4 the drug squad executed 14 search warrants related to an investigation surrounding Izms and PurePillz.

Anita Kolevski, 26, James Breckenridge, 30, Hou Feng Wang, 50, and Peter Wookey, 57, the father of Izms and PurePillz CEO Adam Wookey, were charged.

Izms and PurePillz sell products online and through some convenience stores. Izms sells "a legal alternative to weed" that is made of smokeable herbs mixed with synthetic cannabinoids that get the user high. PurePillz sells a variety of pills.

Police allege they seized "several thousand packages of illegal drugs" worth more than $300,000.

Const. Victor Kwong of Toronto police said Health Canada considers the products illegal under the Controlled Drugs and Substances Act because of their similarities to drugs that are listed under the act.

Police said the product "Bliss Hardcore formula R18" is considered a Schedule I drug and contains methylone, which is known as the ingredient in some variations of the drugs known as "bath salts."

Police identified two PurePillz products, "Freq" and "Rush," as Schedule III drugs, containing benzylpiperazine (BZP) and trifluoromethylphenylpiperazine (TFMPP) or similar compounds. Rush was sold as an ecstasy alternative and the company described Freq as a "psychedelic sensual disco biscuit." Neither appear to be currently for sale on the company's website.

Police said four other products, yet to be tested, are suspected of being Schedule I and III drugs: "Nemesis," which the company describes as a mild energy pill, "Meo," which it describes as a "relaxing chill pill," and "Flip," which the company describes as "trippy" and "Stiff 4ever" that it says is "for anyone looking to have a blast for hours."

The police detectives involved in the investigation were unavailable to comment on Thursday, and the TPS could not comment on Adam Wookey, who was arrested in October 2013, as part of a police investigation of traditional illegal drugs and charged with two counts each of possession for the purpose of trafficking marijuana and MDMA, plus two counts of possession of proceeds of crime.

BERNARD WEIL/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

THREE SISTERS, THREE CARS, ONE INTERSECTION

Three sisters hit by three different drivers on three different occasions — all at the same North York intersection.

The three incidents were maddening for their mother, Judith Jung, and highlight the need for drivers to pay more attention to pedestrians, she said.

The siblings — twins Felicity and Genevieve Jung, 18, and Mary Frances Rizzuto, 32 — were hit as they crossed Beecroft Road at Park Home Avenue, in the Yonge and Sheppard area.

They say they had the green light, and were not listening to music or talking on their phones when crossing. In each case, the driver was charged, and gave the same explanation: they simply didn't see the young woman.

The Jung family's bizarre tale begins with Rizzuto on May 26, 2011. As she crossed Beecroft, a westbound vehicle on Park Home made a left turn and struck her.

"I remember lying on the ground. I may have been knocked out, because I don't remember falling," she said, adding the crash damaged one of her legs, forcing her to walk at times with a cane, and limiting her ability to drive or climb stairs.

Next came Felicity, less than a month later. An eastbound driver on Park Home turned right, hitting the teenager from behind. The driver stopped to quickly check on her, but then left the scene. "I was there on the ground," she said. "I was in shock. I had to walk home after, and that's when I started to cry."

The final incident happened last Dec. 11, when Genevieve, was crossing Beecroft with Felicity and was hit by a car turning left off Park Home.

"I was trying not to freak out, but when other people helped me off the road, that's when I went into shock and started shaking and crying a lot."

It's not so much the intersection that's the problem, said their mother, but rather bad drivers. "I'm angry. I really am. The drivers treat you as if you shouldn't be blocking their way," she said.

For the past three years, Judith has tried to make her case with the city's transportation services. She's urged them to add speed bumps to the intersection, as well as reduce the speed limit on Park Home from 50 km/h to 40 km/h.

Recently, the department placed signs reminding drivers to yield to pedestrians, and it is also promising to add a left-turning signal for drivers and zebra lines on the crosswalks when the weather improves.

A MORE PLEASANT TTC EXPERIENCE AND IMPROVED RELIABILITY GO HAND-IN-HAND

ANDY BYFORD
CEO
TORONTO TRANSIT COMMISSION

The pilot phase of new signage at Bloor-Yonge Station that was unveiled this week is just one part of our drive to modernize the TTC and make the system easier to use for all of our customers – everyday riders, visitors to Toronto or those whose first language is not English.

In addition to the suite of 2014 Customer Charter promises to keep you better informed while on the TTC, we are also working to make the system more accessible, efficient and pleasant.

To that end, we made a common-sense change that now sees us do monthly escalator inspections during off-peak hours so that escalators are available to you during our busiest times. We are also adding more people to handle customer calls for Wheel-Trans, and improving service so that more Wheel-Trans trips can be accommodated.

We are making the purchase of your TTC fare easier. By the end of June, all Pass Vending Machines will have chip technology and accept credit cards. At the same time, at Collector Booths you will be able to purchase a wider range of tickets, tokens and passes using your debit or credit card.

Service reliability on our surface routes will be improved with the addition of route supervisors deployed to the street to tackle the age-old problem of vehicle bunching and gapping. And we are adding 20 fare enforcement officers to make sure that everyone pays their fair share.

Delivery of safe, punctual, reliable service is the biggest priority for my team. And while we tackle and resolve the underlying root causes of delay, I think it is equally important to drive up the underlying quality of every aspect of your TTC service.

NEW NUMBERED SUBWAY LINES, MAPS AND SIGNS UNVEILED AT BLOOR-YONGE STATION

The TTC has launched a trial of new signage at Bloor-Yonge Station aimed at improving and easing navigation of the subway system and its stations. Improved wayfinding is a 2014 Customer Charter commitment under "Informative."

The most substantial change is the redesign of line names to include line numbers, linked to colours already in use. The numbers reflect the order in which a line was built (see illustrations below).

1. Yonge-University-Spadina Line
2. Bloor-Danforth Line
3. Scarborough RT Line
4. Sheppard Line

The TTC will apply Lines 5 through 7 to the future LRT lines approved and funded by Metrolinx to its wayfinding system. The now-under construction Eglinton-Crosstown line will become Line 5 when it opens.

Subway platforms will also see enhanced "you are here" maps to further aid riders using the system. There will also be improved signage for those with disabilities.

The trial of new wayfinding will also take place at St George Station, which will be retrofitted in the coming weeks. What do you think of the new wayfinding system? Share your thoughts on ttc.ca or send an email to wayfinding@ttc.ca.

For more information on the new wayfinding system, visit the TTC's YouTube channel at www.youtube.com/OfficialTTCchannel.

Man to be tried as adult for childhood attack

Don Willburn Collins
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A Texas man accused of dousing a boy with gasoline and setting him on fire when he was a teenager can be tried as an adult for murder after the victim died from his burns 13 years later, a judge ruled Thursday.

Authorities allege that Don Willburn Collins was 13 when he attacked Robert Middleton in 1998 on his eighth birthday near the younger boy's home northeast of Houston. Middleton was burned across 99 per cent of his body and endured years of physical therapy before he died in 2011 from skin cancer blamed on his burns.

Colleen Middleton, Robert's mother, said she was relieved the case would go to trial.

"When Robert died we were thinking maybe nothing will ever happen, maybe someone is just going to get away with what they did to him," she said. "It's been a long road."

Robert Middleton named Collins as his attacker and the older boy was arrested in 1998. Collins spent several months in juvenile detention but was released after prosecutors said they didn't have enough evidence to pursue the case.

Shortly before he died, Middleton gave a videotaped deposition in which he accused Collins for the first time of sexually assaulting him two weeks before the attack. The sexual assault allegation prompted investigators to reopen the case.

Crimea sets to split with

Russian power play. West answers Crimea's move with sanctions

Ukraine lurched toward break-up Thursday when lawmakers in Crimea unanimously declared they wanted to join Russia and would put the decision to voters in 10 days — and Russian lawmakers pushed a bill to facilitate a handover.

U.S. President Barack Obama condemned the moves and the West answered with the first real sanctions against Russia.

Speaking from the White House, Obama said any decisions on the future of Crimea, a pro-Russian area of Ukraine, must include the country's new government.

"The proposed referendum on the future of Crimea would violate the constitution and violate international law," Obama said. "We are well beyond the days when borders can be redrawn over the heads of democratic leaders."

Russian President Vladimir Putin's hand was almost certainly behind Thursday's dramatic developments, but it was not clear whether he is aiming for outright annexation, or simply strengthening his hand in talks with the West.

The White House moved to impose financial sanctions and travel restrictions on opponents of Ukraine's new government and the EU also announced limited punitive measures against Putin's government, including the suspension of trade and visa talks. Both Washington and the EU said they were discussing further sanctions.

Crimea's parliament rammed through what amounted to a declaration of independence from Ukraine, announcing it would let the Crimean people, 60 per cent of whom are ethnic Russian, decide whether they want to become part of their neighbour to the east. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Canada's stance

'A vestige of another century'

Crimea is under "illegal military occupation" and Canada will not recognize its forthcoming referendum on whether to join Russia, Prime Minister Stephen Harper said Thursday.

Lawmakers in Crimea voted unanimously to split from Ukraine and join Russia, and will hold a referendum March 16 to allow voters on the disputed peninsula to weigh in on the decision.

Harper described Russia's invasion of Ukraine as an act of aggression and a clear violation of Ukraine's sovereignty and international law.

The prime minister says Canada continues to view the situation in Ukraine "with the gravest concern" and will co-operate with its G7 partners and like-minded allies.

Moscow has so far refused to withdraw its troops from the strategic region, which also houses Russia's Black Sea fleet — a tense standoff that has triggered international sanctions against Russia and visa restrictions on its officials.

Ukraine's prime minister has called the Crimean lawmakers' decision illegitimate, but Russia says if Crimea votes to become part of Russia, they would introduce legislation to speed up the procedure.

Foreign Affairs Minister John Baird said it's impossible to organize a meaningful referendum in the 10-day time frame proposed.

He said Canada is deeply concerned about Russia's military actions.

"This is a vestige of another century," he said. "It's a Soviet-style tactic that's unacceptable for a G8 country and unacceptable in 2014. We're going to condemn it in the strongest of terms."

Trial. Distraught Pistorius prayed, says witness

As the girlfriend he shot in the head lay dead or dying in his home, a weeping, praying Oscar Pistorius knelt at her side and struggled in vain to help her breathe by holding two fingers in her clenched mouth, a witness testified Thursday at the double-amputee runner's murder trial.

"I shot her. I thought she was a burglar. I shot her," radiologist Johan Stipp, a neighbour, recalled Pistorius saying. The neighbour had entered Pistorius's home after hearing screams. By that time, the celebrated athlete had carried Reeva Steenkamp's bloodied body downstairs following the fatal nighttime shooting in his bathroom. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

We Day is heading across the pond to its inaugural U.K. event — the first outside of North America — this Friday at Wembley Arena in London. It's expected 12,000 students (including 130 from Canada) and teachers from more than 380 schools will be in attendance ... along with Prince Harry and a number of other celebs.

We Day lands in the U.K. Inaugural event hopes to leave British youth with an infectious message of doing good

For Metro Canada

Each year, EF's Global Citizen Scholarship is awarded to 10 students across Canada who demonstrate a passion for global citizenship. And this year, the winners are heading to London and Berlin to participate in We Day U.K. and EF's Science & Innovation Summit in Berlin.

"What's unique about this event is that we have over 130 students from Canada joining with EF Tours to experience our first international We Day event and share their excitement with students in the U.K. who get to see it for the first time," said Craig Kielburger, international activist and co-founder of Free The Children.

Prerana Gambhir, a Grade 12 student with Fraser Heights Secondary in Surrey, B.C., is one of those 10 scholarship students. Gambhir, 17, is head of her school's global issues club and head delegate for the model UN.

Romeo Tello, a councillor with the City Youth Council of Toronto, is hyped to exchange ideas with other youth at We Day U.K. PHOTOS CONTRIBUTED

This year, the club is focused on women's empowerment; they're fundraising to support two girls' education in Tanzania and using any excess funds they raise to support micro-financing projects for women in developing countries.

As an immigrant to Canada, Gambhir says she realizes the importance of a free education. "I wanted to contribute and do my bit," she said.

In addition to fundraising through Free The Children's We Are Silent and We Scare Hunger campaigns, the global issues club has also created its own campaign called Five Days of Fire — a five-day competition that includes food and games.

"What you want to do is help (recipients) create a self-sufficient lifestyle."

Prerana Gambhir, a grade 12 student who is passionate about sustainability issues

Prerana Gambhir is the head of her school's global issues club.

Gambhir feels strongly about the topic of sustainability. A lot of people feel they're doing their part just by raising money, she said, "but what you want to do is help (recipients) create a self-sufficient lifestyle."

With We Day U.K., it means getting that message across to an even larger audience.

Gambhir is excited to see education activist Malala Yousafzai at the event. "I've heard her speeches in the UN and her stories are truly moving," she said. She's also excited to see Evanna Lynch, who plays Luna Lovegood in the Harry Potter movies. "I'm a huge Harry Potter fan," she added.

Romeo Tello, a Grade 11 student with Monarch Park Collegiate in Toronto, is also on his way to London on scholarship. Tello, 16, is a councillor with the City Youth Council of Toronto, working with local reps on community issues and campaigns. His efforts have led, for example, to the extension of library hours in his community.

He also works with the school's Free the Children club, Minga. Last year, the club sent a group of students to India to help build a school; students are currently raising funds to build a school in Ecuador.

"I'm one of those more fortunate youth who got to see We Day grow into what it is now," said Tello. "I've been to one of the first We Days in Toronto and now I get to go to the first international one."

Like Gambhir, he's excited to see Yousafzai at We Day U.K.. But he's also hoping the trip will spark ideas through collaboration with like-minded youth — sort of like an informal forum of ideas.

"In my school we're all from the same neighbourhood — the discussion is pretty similar," said Tello. "These are nine other people from different areas of the country and our views will be different, our strategies will be different ... and hopefully some tangible strategies will come out of that."

We Day U.K. 101

- Co-chaired by Holly Branson and Lord Rumi Verjee, We Day U.K. features actress Jennifer Hudson, songstress Ellie Goulding artist Dizzee Rascal, and Malala Yousafzai, the international education activist and co-founder of the Malala Fund.
- Free The Children is one of the world's largest youth-driven charities. So far, it's helped to build more than 650 schools, providing education to 55,000 children, in eight developing countries.
- We Day is free to attend; schools earn their tickets by taking action in local and global communities.
- "We have students coming from all over England, Wales, Scotland, the Isle of Man, Northern Ireland and even the Republic of Ireland," said Craig Kielburger. "The young people in the U.K. are already incredibly creative and engaged in service actions and we can't wait to see the impact the first We Day event will have on them."

So did the chicken or egg get there first?

Hannah Owen says her experience with Free the Children spurred her on to start her own fundraising efforts. PHOTOS CONTRIBUTED

In 2010, Hannah Owen went to Rwanda with her dad, actor Clive Owen. She was 13 years old. They were there as guests of Aegis Trust, a British NGO that campaigns to prevent genocide.

It was a life-changing experience. "I had been opened up to the world of Africa ... but I never really had the experience of youth empowerment," she said. It was a trip to Kenya a year later with Me to We — to visit a Free The Children development — that helped her see how youth could make a difference.

"It had the most incredible impact on me," said Owen. "It completely changed my perspective on what is possible."

When she returned home, she started her own fundraising efforts. A conversation with friends turned into a chicken-and-egg race with her sister through the streets of London (each dressed in a costume) to see who would come first: the chicken or the egg. "It was completely bonkers," she said, adding that they managed to raise $5,900 that went toward education in Kenya. Over the past three years, Owen estimates she's helped to raise about $18,500 for various causes.

Hannah and her sister competed in a chicken and egg race through London to see who would finish first.

She's particularly excited to hear Malala Yousafzai speak at We Day U.K. Of course, she'll also be there to see her dad take the stage.

"He has pushed me and opened the doors to that world," she says of her dad.

As for We Day U.K., Owen believes it's going to have a big impact on British youth.

"It will be a spark for an amazing cloud of positivity around the U.K."

From 'high risk' to hopeful

International Women's Day. Lawrence Hill, author of The Book of Negroes, writes about his experience volunteering with girls at high risk for sexual assault and HIV exposure

LAWRENCE HILL
For Metro Canada

As International Women's Day approaches, I wonder how many Hillside High Schools exist in the world. But I would bet good money that there is no Hillside High School like the one I saw in Manzini, Swaziland.

In early February I had travelled to Swaziland as a volunteer to support the work of Crossroads International and its local development partner, the Swaziland Action Group Against Abuse (SWAGAA).

The girls greeted me by singing at the top of their lungs. There were nearly 100 girls crammed into a room with no open windows. Finally, a teacher held up her hand, brought the singing to a halt and asked what was on the girls' minds lately.

The answers came ringing out lucidly and unadorned: Was it appropriate for a high school girl to take up with a sugar daddy? What if they were exposed to HIV and died like their parents? What about teenage pregnancy?

Swaziland has the highest rate of HIV in the world, and young women are the hardest hit of all.

According to a study in 2008, 37 per cent of girls between 15 and 19 have HIV. In Swaziland, one girl in three will be sexually abused before age 18. The wave of sexual violence is so unrelenting that SWAGAA has created a network of "girls' empowerment clubs" to teach girls about their legal rights, issues of sexual reproductive health, and the need to oppose and report abuse.

Author Lawrence Hill with a girls' empowerment club in Swaziland. COURTESY CROSSROADS INTERNATIONAL

The day after I visited Hillside High School, I gave a creative writing workshop. Almost every girl in the group of 20 spoke or wrote about sexual assault. One girl began a writing exercise with these words: "Darkness has been my only mentor."

Crossroads International, a small Canadian NGO I have been supporting as a volunteer for 35 years, directs its development activities to girls and women in various African countries and in Bolivia.

In the case of Swaziland, the girls' empowerment clubs "are saving lives," says SWAGAA executive director Cebile Manzini-Henwood.

"There is urgency in the need to address sexual violence against young girls in my country, to teach them about practices that constitute gender-based violence and provide a safe space for them to report the violations and receive care, love and support."

On the eve of International Women's Day, let's remember girls and women around the world when we are donating from our own pockets and channeling Canadian-led development efforts.

CANADIAN WRITER LAWRENCE HILL FIRST TRAVELLED AS A CROSSROADS INTERNATIONAL VOLUNTEER TO NIGER IN 1979. HE IS AN HONORARY PATRON OF CROSSROADS INTERNATIONAL. HE VISITED SWAZILAND IN FEBRUARY, AFTER SPENDING TWO WEEKS IN SOUTH AFRICA FOR THE FILMING OF THE TV MINISERIES ADAPTATION OF HIS NOVEL THE BOOK OF NEGROES.

PM's ex-adviser under illegal lobbying probe

The RCMP is probing serious new allegations of illegal lobbying by a former senior adviser to Prime Minister Stephen Harper in connection with his work for a powerful business-funded energy advocacy group in Calgary.

The RCMP says after Bruce Carson left the PMO he steadily worked federal Conservative contacts at the topmost levels to influence the development of a new national energy strategy and got handsomely paid for it, contrary to the Criminal Code and lobbying laws that ban lobbying within five years of holding a public office.

The revelations raise fresh and troubling questions about the access that Carson, a once disbarred lawyer, had to top officials in the Conservative government without anyone suggesting it might breach the Conservatives' own rules.

"None of them blew the whistle," said NDP ethics critic Charlie Angus. But Harper's parliamentary secretary shrugged off Opposition questions in the Commons Wednesday, first saying Carson is "a private citizen," then claiming the government did refer his activities to federal authorities.

"If this gentleman is found to have broken any laws, he should suffer under the full consequences of the law," said MP Paul Calandra.

In fact, documents show the federal lobbying commissioner initiated in November 2011 her own probe of Carson's questionable lobbying activities for the Canada School of Energy and Environment as well as a business-funded group calling itself the Energy Policy Institute of Canada or EPIC. Karen Shephard finally referred the allegations to the RCMP in July 2012.

The story is laid out in affidavits to obtain court permission to seize Carson's bank records; however, no charges have been laid and the RCMP's claims have not been tested in court.

The allegations are entirely separate from another influence peddling case against Carson. Carson was charged in 2012 with fraud in connection to allegations he also tried to use his political connections to win federal contracts for water filtration services on native reserves. That fraud trial was delayed in July due to defence claims Carson is in poor health.

Carson's lawyer Pat McCann could not be reached for comment. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Connections

It's a sign of how well-connected Carson is that emails eyed by the RCMP tie him to a whole raft of senior Conservative and Liberal contacts, including:

- Harper's top public servant Privy Council clerk Wayne Wouters and former chief of staff Nigel Wright.

What were Coke execs on when they came up with this ad?

A Diet Coke ad is seen at 84th Street and First Avenue in New York City. While Coca Cola insists its new campaign is about life's big and small "You're on" moments, many are finding it hard to ignore the phrase's more colloquial meaning — namely, you're on drugs.

Could Mattel deal earn Girl Scouts a Bad Idea patch?

Activist. The Barbie participation patch would transform little girls into 'walking ads'

America's top doll, Barbie, finds herself in controversy once again, this time over a business partnership between her manufacturer, Mattel, and the Girl Scouts.

On Thursday, two consumer advocacy groups often critical of corporate advertising tactics — the Campaign for a Commercial Free Childhood and the Center for a New American Dream — criticized Barbie as a flawed role model for little girls and launched a petition drive urging the Girl Scouts of the USA to end the partnership. The Girls Scouts said they would not do so.

The Girl Scouts' partnership with Mattel, announced last August, includes a Barbie-themed activity book, a website, and a Barbie participation patch — the first Girl Scout uniform patch with corporate sponsorship.

1 Celebrity selfie. It was bound to happen, and the world can thank Ellen DeGeneres for being the first to discover that if you take a picture with the world's biggest stars on live TV, and then challenge those viewers to break a retweet record, and it's free ... somebody's setting a new retweet record. #OscarSelfie

2 Mayor of late night. Jimmy Kimmel's most talked-about guest was Toronto's Rob Ford. Kimmel poked some fun and showed a video montage of the mayor's various missteps, read him a letter from an angry Torontonian, and grilled him until the mayor was literally sweating. Among Ford's top comments were "the apologies are over, I'm moving on," "I wasn't elected to be perfect," and the golden quote, "Actions speak louder than words." Oh, I'm done.

3 Pardon my French. Quebec Premier Pauline Marois, hoping to capitalize on recent polls putting her ahead of the Liberals, has called an election. Her goal is to achieve a majority government that will allow her to adopt her controversial Charter of Quebec Values. No hashtags were suitable for print.

4 Academy hustle. Fans of American Hustle were disappointed as the film's 10 nominations yielded zero wins. It never had a chance as host Ellen DeGeneres pointed out with my favourite line of the night: "Possibility number one, 12 Years A Slave wins best picture. Possibility number two, you're all racist."

5 Frosty tweets. Checking my Twitter account (@TheMetroList) while crossing the street, I stepped into a pothole that filled my boot with freezing water as a truck passed by splashing slush over the entire right side of my body, and the hashtag staring back at me was #SpringForward. Terrific. One less hour of bed rest.

6 The Voice. In this week's blind auditions, one mentor reigned supreme, collecting artist after great artist with nothing but his three previous wins and the promise of a good time. Of all the musical talent on the panel, that man was the quick-witted and charismatic Blake Shelton. #TeamBlake

7 Dancing With the Stars. ABC revealed their lineup for the upcoming season. Contestants include: Danica McKellar of The Wonder Years, Candace Cameron Bure of Full House, Drew Carey, and Diana Nyad who swam from Cuba to Key West last year. Hashtag is #DWTS because it's shorter than #DancingWithPeopleYouNeverHeardof,orForgot.

8 Puck daddy. The Vancouver Canucks traded goaltender Roberto Luongo to the Florida Panthers, tweeted his picture with the quote, "This caught me off guard, but I'm excited. I'm going home." then deleted it! No one knows why, but it spawned a barrage of creative tweets including one with Luongo's face on a 'Get out of jail free' card, referring to Vancouver's escape from the 35-year-old's 12-year contract that still has eight years to go.

3D-printed cone is music to the ears

The greatest taste experiences can feel like sweet music, and one of mankind's favourite treats can now provide a soundtrack. Ice cream that can be played as an instrument, with tongue-activated sensors in a 3D-printed cone sending signals to a computer that plays "sounds reminiscent of winter icicles and slippery surfaces."

Q & A

Heightened senses

Metro spoke to designer Emilie Baltz

What considerations are there when matching a foodstuff to a music experience?
Our goal with performance food experiences is to study the relationship between the senses. It is challenging to say there is a 'should' involved in pairing sound with food. Anything can be paired with anything; the interesting piece is the resulting emotion that is created from the mixture. Food is such a subjective, complex experience that each person reacts differently.

What other foods do you think would work well with musical accompaniment?
We tried marzipan, dough, cocktails, sodas and even the rogue jar of peanut butter, which did not work. Seeing as music is a rhythmic experience, the foodstuffs that beg for repetitive actions — like licking — for their ingestion are perfectly suited.

RE: Napping On Vancouver Transit? Smile For The Camera! Published March 3

This should not be allowed.. I for one would not want someone snapping a photo of me and posting it on the internet for everyone to see. These people deserve privacy, instead of being ridiculed.
Tuccy posted to metronews.ca

I don't think it's a big deal. The pictures aren't inappropriate, it's just a snapshot of what everyone else on the train is seeing. If you're falling asleep on public transportation and you think you deserve privacy, erm....stay awake? Go to sleep at home?? ? There's hardly a breach of privacy here.

Synopsis

Based on characters from The Rocky and Bullwinkle Show, the movie stars the voice of Modern Family's Ty Burrell as Mr. Peabody, a beagle who is also the world's smartest being. Imagine Family Guy's Brian with less attitude but more PhDs. When his adopted son Sherman (Max Charles) bites schoolmate Penny (Ariel Winter) Peabody tries to smooth things by throwing a dinner for Penny's parents (Stephen Colbert and Leslie Mann). His party plan is almost derailed when Sherman and Penny hijack the WABAC device, a time machine that takes them to ancient Egypt and the Trojan War. Can Mr. Peabody rescue them before Penny's parents notice she's gone and the space-time continuum is irreparably destroyed? Steve Gow sits in for Mark Breslin this week.

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Every dog has its day

Mr. Peabody & Sherman. Family flick still cuts clever for the adults in the theatre

Richard: Steve, Mr. Peabody & Sherman lacks the political bent of the original Jay Ward cartoon series, but it is loaded with references from literature, history and popular culture. It's the only kid's movie with an Oedipal joke and I can't imagine a Minion punning, "Marie Antoinette could have kept her head if she had issued an edict to distribute bread to the poor. But you can't have your cake and edict too." Which means it is stuffed with the spirit of Ward, which is a good thing, even if it does veer off path with a sentimental father and son subplot. What did you think?

Steve: I agree 100 per cent, Richard. In fact, by dipping its proverbial toe into that father-son subplot, the film dares to touch on what other family films like Finding Nemo or The Incredibles have done better. Still, the movie's meteoric pace never lingers too long on any facet of the film and its niche truly is the ceaseless nods to historical events. My favourite had to be a clever throwback to Spartacus.

RC: I know the history element sounds dangerously educational for a mainstream kid's flick, but the movie's trips back to ancient Egypt, the Trojan War and Leonardo Da Vinci's studio where they discover the secret of Mona Lisa's smile are really fun. They are made doubly so by great voice work. As the dim witted general Agamemnon, Patrick Warburton really stands out. He started the confident dumb guy routine on Seinfeld (as Elaine's on-and-off boyfriend Puddy) and uses it to hilarious effect here.

SG: And for those who remember the old Bullwinkle series, Ty Burrell does a pretty decent job voicing the movie's canine savant. Even more successful are the comedy's captivating visuals, especially the way director Rob Minkoff works the 3D to capture the measure of epic Trojan battles or travelling through the time-space continuum and not simply for eye-catching sight gags.

RC: The animation is top notch and like the best of Ward's work, Mr. Peabody & Sherman realizes that the material has to work on multi levels, the surface and the satirical. Like The Lego Movie, I think this movie will appeal to kids and adults.

SG: Again, I agree. The movie is a peppy, playful ride through history for all ages. In fact, it probably won't hurt either that most everyone in the audience will barely remember the old Bullwinkle cartoon.

Villeneuve's dark twisted fantasy

Enemy. Actor Jake Gyllenhaal talks about breathing life into Quebec filmmaker's cinematic vision

LIZ BROWN
liz.brown@metronews.ca

Denis Villeneuve, left, and Jake Gyllenhaal chat on the set of Enemy, which opens on Friday. CONTRIBUTED

In many ways, 2013 was a dark year for Canadian filmmaker Denis Villeneuve and his right-hand actor, Jake Gyllenhaal. At the Toronto International Film Festival, the pair premiered two disparate — but both unsettling — films.

The one that garnered the most attention was the Hugh Jackman-fronted Prisoners, where Gyllenhaal plays the morally upright gumshoe Detective Loki. And while this role pulled plenty of praise for Gyllenhaal, his more difficult turn as an actor came in Villeneuve's second offering at TIFF — the mind-bending Enemy.

The film, based on a book called The Double by Portuguese writer José Saramago, delves into deep thoughts on doppelgangers. It's a heavy psycho-erotic thriller whose ending refuses to be constrained with a neat bow. Gyllenhaal plays a melancholic Toronto-dwelling history prof who learns there's a D-list actor out in Mississauga who looks exactly like him. The actor is challenged to play two characters against himself when the doubles eventually meet.

"Denis was inspired by the book and was trying to find a really grand metropolis that matched his idea. He felt like Toronto has been shot as other places so often but not very often as itself," says Gyllenhaal, explaining the director's decision to set the story in Canada's largest city — a creative leap from the book.

The air is unsettling as the story unfurls in a grey and desolate Toronto. And as the doppelgangers continue to meet things just get more murky. "It's about the unconscious," Gyllenhaal says of the film. "There's a dream-like nature to it. Dreams are had in the dark and they have this darkness that's really beautiful," he adds.

Enemy is the kind of movie that taunts us to construct meaning from a fever-dream and will leave viewers debating its meaning long after the finale. "I feel like we're all searching for a concrete answer to films. We want a structure that is clear and a lot of times we want a resolution that will somehow bring us comfort in a discomforting world," says Gyllenhaal.

But even after this philosophical moment, Gyllenhaal himself can't escape that human desire to put things in order, offering his own interpretation on the tale: "I think it's about a man struggling with committing to a relationship and a marriage. It's the psychological journey, when you're trying to decide the parts of yourself to commit to and the parts of yourself to kill off," he says.

Canadian Screen Awards

Enemy is nominated for a number of Canadian Screen Awards, including best motion picture, achievement in direction (Denis Villeneuve), performance by an actor in a leading role (Jake Gyllenhaal) and performance by an actress in a supporting role (Sarah Gadon).

Canadian Screen Awards

Orphan Black, Degrassi take home hardware

The sci-fi serial Orphan Black heads into this weekend's Canadian Screen Awards with a leading eight trophies already under its belt. The Space smash became the TV leader at an early industry gala that bestowed acting awards to supporting actor Jordan Gavaris (who plays Felix), supporting actress Maria Doyle Kennedy (Mrs. S) and guest performer Natalie Lisinska (Aynsley).

Degrassi collected four awards in the children's or youth categories, including best series, best direction, best writing and best performance for young actor Dylan Everett (Campbell Saunders).

Winners in the marquee film and TV categories will be announced at a star-studded bash in Toronto on Sunday. Martin Short hosts that bash in Toronto. It will be broadcast on CBC-TV.

- Wolverine. The great north is home to a pen-and-ink comic book history that is more than just pulp fiction. From Captain Canuck to Nelvana of the Northern Lights; Wolverine to Northguard, go online for an interactive map of Canadian superheroes.

- First comic. While the first edition of Nelvana of the Northern Lights cost 15 cents in the 1940s, you can read it online for free. Find out how Nelvana descended to earth after being called by Chief Tadjo to defeat the evil Commander Toroff.

- Fan art. When it came to how Nelvana would be illustrated, comic creator Adrian Dingle had some ideas of appropriate Arctic wear: a fur-trimmed mini-skirt, knee-high boots, matching gloves and headband, and a magical cape. While fans of the Inuit demi goddess aren't apt to wrap her in a Canada Goose jacket, they do have their own opinions about how Nelvana should look in 2014. Canada's own super hero. Captain Canuck, the boy scout with superhuman strength, has been reinvisioned for a new generation

life@metronews.ca

When it comes to updating a disco-era comic book character for an action-filled generation, you need to make some crucial changes.

"These days, the whole idea of a superhero in tights doesn't really exist," said Fadi Hakim. "You do need boots, you need armour. You need that sort of thing."

Hakim is one of the creative minds behind the revamped Captain Canuck, a red-and-white clad superhero who first leapt — he doesn't fly but he has superhuman strength — from the comic book pages in 1975.

The series was temporarily shelved in 1976, but was back in stores from 1979 to 1981. A second version of Canuck appeared in 1993, then a third in 2004, but these were both limited runs.

Fast forward a decade, where the highest rated films chronicle the ka-pows, whacks and prak-praks of the X-Men, Justice League and Dark Knight, and the time appeared right for Canuck to reemerge from the Canadian wilderness of forgotten superheroes.

A new five-part web series featuring Canuck wrapped up this week (more are planned), a live-action suit has been unveiled for public appearances, and the film rights have been bought by Minds Eye Entertainment. Fans are even creating their own art based on the characters in the series.

"He is a boy scout that is a little apologetic and tongue in cheek," said Hakim, president of Captain Canuck Inc. and owner of Toronto's Lakeview Restaurant, about this new incarnation.

You see those qualities in the first episode of the web series. Canuck weaves his way through a Canada Day crowd on Parliament Hill in a rush to defuse a bomb. "Sorry, miss," he says to a female fan before interrupting a Platinum Blonde concert to locate the explosive.

Anthology

Resurrecting Nelvana

Captain Canuck isn't the only Canadian superhero emerging from the protective hands of comic book collectors or the dog-eared, twine-tied stacks in musty basements.

Pre-dating Wonder Woman, Nelvana of the North first appeared in comics in 1941 and ran for 31 issues.

The tribal legends about the witch-like daughter of Koliak, King of the Northern Lights, inspired comic creator Adrian Dingle to pen a story about Canada's first female superhero.

CGA Comics' Hope Nicholson and her partner, Rachel Richey, launched a Kickstarter campaign last year to raise money to publish a complete anthology of all the Nelvana comics. Within five days they reached — and then doubled — their goal of $25,000. This spring, the 350-page book will be sent out to the project's crowdfunders.

"She is amazingly drawn, she is an Inuit super goddess, which is something that is really unusual," said Nicholson. "It is extremely Canadian. She actually, in one issues, arrives on a polar bear into battle, which is where Nelvana animation got its logo of a polar bear."

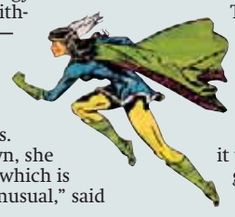
To create the anthology, they went to about 13 different private and public collections across Canada to scan each page. They managed to get all of them except for one which they could not find, said Nicholson, who also produced the Canadian superhero documentary Lost Heroes, currently airing on Super Channel. "It was in one private collector's collection but it was too damaged to scan, so I had to go to a reference library yesterday to get a microfiche scan." DEAN LISK



"Exploring Canadian identity is amazing," said Hakim. "It is very simple to play on that dry sense of humour that is almost clichéd, but we Canadians hold that dear, and it is important to us. That is what Captain Canuck is."

It was that representation of Canadian identity that first attracted Hakim to the character. He was six years old when he came across a Canuck comic at the Dixie Flea Market near Toronto Pearson International Airport. The '70s comic followed the adventures of Tom Evans, a secret agent living in a futuristic 1993, who gains supernatural powers after an encounter with extraterrestrials.

"I had my own money, 25 cents, and I bought Captain Canuck No. 1," he said. "I didn't remember reading the story but I do remember getting as many issues as I could. He was a patriotic character. He was vibrant. And then 'Canuck,' I didn't really know what 'Canuck' meant.

"I was born here, but am first generation, and, you know, singing O Canada in class, and the flag, and to see that in a comic book ... It puts things in perspective."

Hakim went from buying Canuck comics to introducing the character to a new generation after he met Richard Comely, the comic's creator. Hakim wanted to use the superhero's likeness on his restaurant's menu and approached Comely to see if he would allow it.

"I took a chance and emailed Richard and I couldn't believe it when he got back to me," said Hakim.

When the license for Captain Canuck became available, Hakim acquired the rights. One of the first people he brought on board to revamp the character was Paul Gardner.

"As a kid, I came from Scotland and I discovered the comic," said Gardner, creative director at Captain Canuck Inc. "I had Captain Britain over there, and they didn't have it here. Then, I saw Captain Canuck on a shelf, picked it up and fell in love with it. My way into Canada was sort of through the comic book."

The first question they asked themselves is what they would keep from the original series. "It went from being a fantasy — the big blue sky — to how do we do this practically so we don't have fans hate us," said Gardner. "It takes a village to raise a child; it's the same as taking a property like this."

While they changed the suit, and switched the gender of the character Blue Fox from male to female, they stuck to the spirit of Captain Canuck as a big boy scout with a conscious.

"We wanted to make this all inclusive, we wanted to make sure we stuck to our female audience and brought a bit more balance to the characters," said Gardner. "There is a big female audience."

"There are no big breasts, there is none of that nonsense," said Hakim. "So far, so great. We are growing it slowly, we are keeping it independent to the point where we have enough of a following we can take it to a bigger audiences."

Voicing the Captain

In the web series, Captain Canuck is voiced by Kristen Holden-Ried (Lost Girl, The Tudors), with Paul Amos (Lost Girl), Laura Vandervoort (Smallville) and Golden Globe nominee Tatiana Maslany (Orphan Black) also lending their voices to characters. The five episode series can be viewed at captaincanuck.com.

The man inside the leather

How do you dress Captain Canuck? Not in tights, that's for sure, says David Pea, president of UD Replicas. "There is a lot of 'been there done that' with spandex. They can be convincing and realistic but they can also look cheap," he says.

Pea's Toronto-based company makes motorcycle suit replicas of pop culture costumes, from the Dark Knight and Man of Steel to KISS jackets and Star Wars.

"What the studios do with millions of dollars and massive budgets to create their costumes on films we have to somehow reproduce out of leather for the public," he said.

Late last summer, Pea was approached to create a Captain Canuck suit. The costume was shown for the first time at Thursday's premiere of episode five of the animated series in Toronto.

"In the cartoon, Canuck has big shoulders, no waist and a little head, and they had to figure out how to get all that to work on a real person without it looking silly," says Pea. "It had to be done with human proportions." METRO

The mask

Taken from a life cast, a clay mold was later injected with red-and-white urethane rubber (the same stuff used for car bumpers and tires). Red earpieces were later attached and blue mesh lenses were placed in the eye sockets. "It looks bad-ass," says Pea, adding Canuck wears the mask over a white balaclava.

The maple leafs

There is the large, main maple leaf on the chest and on the back, but maple leafs were also silk-screened on each of the shoulders.

The effect

"It doesn't matter what you are built like when you put on our stuff," says Pea. "Even if our suits are too big on you, it naturally looks skin tight because of the muscle-wrapping design we have done. He is going to look like a tank. It is going to look like he has zero body fat."

The muscles

The Captain's shoulders, biceps, triceps, thighs and six-pack (more like eight-pack) were sculpted out of motorcycle-grade foam-body armour. The leather was then glued to the muscles and worked into the creases to make the suit look skin tight. It took more than a month to complete this phase.

The fabrics

The jackets and pants are made from a white heavy-grained Napa leather and two types of red suede. There is darker red suede for the details and a brighter red covered in silicone hexagon print. "It is a 3D-raised print and you can feel it with your finger when you run it across it. That was a nightmare to do, I am not going to lie," says Pea. "The philosophy of the character had to fit. He is a Canadian hero, so the fact it is made of something a little sturdier than spandex makes sense with our weather."

The boots

Also custom made, the knee-high boots are deep red with white trim. Snap buckles on the sides allow Canuck to pull them on. "These are the sexiest and coolest boots we have ever made and they scream Canada. There is no mistaking them for anyone but Captain Canuck." For the record, Canuck wears a size 11.

Canuck talk

Captain Canuck spared a few minutes from his crime-fighting crusade to answer a few need-to-know questions. Here is what red and white had to say:

Who is a Canadian hero?
Chris Hadfield sets an amazing example for all young Canadians — and he's one of the only men I know who can fly in space! A close second would be the True Patriot Love organization, which looks after all the men and women who risk their lives in military service.

Who is a zero?
There's a villain named Vex giving a succubus friend of mine a hard time recently. Reminds me I've got to return her Rush CDs...

What superhero would you like to go out with?
I don't have much of a personal life these days, but I did I hear Tessa Virtue's time has freed up recently.

Who is more patriotic, you or Captain America?
Being a patriot is not a contest for either of us. Curling, on the other hand... METRO

A brief history of comics

It's time to stop thinking 'comedians' when you hear the words 'Canada' and 'comics.' Here is a quick sampling of some of our illustrious illustrated past and present:

Johnny Canuck

Created as a political cartoon in the 1800s, this national personification was Canada's answer to Great Britain's John Bull and the U.S.'s Uncle Sam. Just like Barbie, Canuck was depicted as everything from a soldier to a "habitant" and a lumberjack — which is the basis for the Vancouver Canuck's logo.

Superman

We've all seen the "It will never fly" heritage moment; in 1933, Jerry Siegel and his Canadian cousin Joe Shuster created the building-leaping Man of Steel. Some of the original elements in the strip, like the name of the newspaper Clark Kent worked at, were inspired by Shuster's Toronto upbringing.

Golden Age of comics

When the War Exchange Conservation Act banned the import of luxury goods from the United States — yes, comics included — in the 1940s, a Golden Age of comics was started in Canada. Johnny Canuck was updated and new characters, like Nelvana of the Northern Lights, were introduced.

X-Men

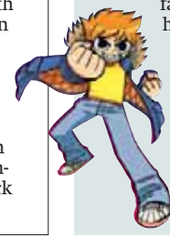
Introduced in 1963, the popular comic series about humans with mutant powers had storylines take place in Canada — including how Alberta-born Wolverine had his skeleton bonded with Adamantium. The film series was partially shot in Canada, with Canuck actors portraying some of the key characters. Among them are Halifax's Ellen Page as Kitty Pryde, Shawn Ashmore as Iceman, and Canadian-born Anna Paquin as Rogue.

Alpha Flight and Northstar

First appearing in a 1979 edition of Uncanny X-Men, Alpha Flight was an all-Canadian superhero team that tried to capture Wolverine and bring him back to Canada. The team is made up of French, English and First Nation characters, and was spun-off into its own series. One ember of Alpha Flight, Northstar — Montreal-born Jean-Paul Beaubier — was one of the first openly gay comic book characters, and even married his partner, Kyle Jinadu, in 2012.

Tom McFarlane

A Calgary native, McFarlane worked on a number of famous comics in the '80s and '90s before creating his own character, the anti-hero Spawn.



Graphic novels

In recent years, Canadian cartoonists like Seth (Palookaville), Chester Brown (Louis Riel, Paying for It) and Bryan Lee O'Malley (the Scott Pilgrim series) have received acclaim for their graphic novels. METRO

Wine warms up to soup

Not every culinary creation was designed with wine in mind. Take soup for example.

The perennial meal starter has no one flavour profile. Hundreds of different recipes exist, so anointing a single wine to lord over them all is impossible.

Oh, and did I mention soup is mostly liquid? Wine doesn't play well with like-minded matter. Its idea of a perfect marriage is something solid that it can wrap its fruit, acid and, in the case of a red, tannins around.

That said, some soup styles are more wine friendly than others. Just look to the fundamentals of their foundation.

Those with texture are accommodating and today's veg-based recipe has weight and stability, which gives it a level of solidity wines find appealing. I like low acid reds with this veggie-palooza.

Try a bright New World Merlot, a juicy French Beaujolais or a plump New Zealand Pinot Noir like Villa Maria's 2012 Private Bin Pinot Noir ($19.95 - $24.99) — a silky blend of cherry and strawberry that checks all the right boxes. PRICES REFLECT RANGE ACROSS COUNTRY. Location: Sound Academy

Want to feel bad about yourself? Go see Lorde in concert and watch the talent dripping off of her. And then remember that she's only 18 years old. Fresh off a huge Grammy win, we imagine the young New Zealander will be in royal form (see what we did there?) when she hits the stage at the Sound Academy. Not surprisingly, this is an all ages event, 'cause, you know, otherwise Lorde wouldn't be allowed in to perform.

Red Wings retire Lidstrom's No. 5

The Detroit Red Wings have retired Nicklas Lidstrom's No. 5 jersey.

Lidstrom was honoured Thursday night before Detroit hosted the Colorado Avalanche. A red banner — with his last name and number in white — was raised to the rafters to end the pregame ceremony.

The storied franchise previously retired six jerseys: Gordie Howe's No. 9, Steve Yzerman's No. 19, Ted Lindsay's No. 7, Terry Sawchuk's No. 1, Alex Delvecchio's No. 10 and Sid Abel's No. 12.

Lidstrom retired after the 2011-12 season - his 20th with the Red Wings. He won four Stanley Cups and seven Norris Trophies as the NHL's best defenceman. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rain wreaks havoc at Doral

Tiger Woods only made it through 10 holes Thursday — this time because of the weather, not his back.

Hitting the ice is twice as nice for Stamkos

Not only did Lightning star Steven Stamkos make his return to action against Buffalo on Thursday after missing 45 games with a broken right shin, but the club also announced he had taken over as team captain. Stamkos, seen here in pre-game introductions, received a standing ovation when it was revealed he would be taking over the 'C' from former captain Martin St. Louis, who was traded to the Rangers on Wednesday in exchange for Ryan Callahan. NBA. Raptors meet Rudy Gay and Co. with chance to inch closer to division title

Any other season, Friday's game against the visiting Sacramento Kings would be entirely about the return of Rudy Gay, and the handful of players on both sides facing off against old teammates.

Any other season, the Toronto Raptors wouldn't be looking to lock down home-court advantage in the playoffs, and an Atlantic Division title.

"It's always important when you play against your former team, but more than that, I'm happy where I'm at," said guard Greivis Vasquez, one of four Kings acquired in the mammoth deal in early December that sent Gay to the Kings.

"We're third in the East, first in our division, and that means a lot. So we're playing for something much bigger. It's a big game for us, but to me it's about finishing the season strong and trying to get as many wins as we can."

Shots dropping for Rudy

Rudy Gay has played better since the Raptors traded him to Sacramento, where he has averaged 20.9 points per game.

The night marks Gay's first visit to Toronto since GM Masai Ujiri shipped him, Aaron Gray and Quincy Acy to Sacramento for Vasquez, Patrick Patterson, John Salmons and Chuck Hayes just 18 games into the season.

The Raptors were 6-12 when Ujiri rewrote his roster, and Toronto has gone 27-14 since to sit third in the Eastern Conference.

Gay said there are no hard feelings between him and the Raptors.

"Change is for the better, for both parties," he told reporters after Thursday's practice at the Air Canada Centre. "I'm happy for those guys, I'm happy to see them play well. I never have any ill intentions."

Prodigy. Wiggins' single college year 'too quick'

Andrew Wiggins remembers sitting in the bleachers of Allen Fieldhouse long after the final whistle, watching as the crowd showered the departing Kansas players with love.

It may not have been that exact moment that the nation's No. 1 recruit decided he would play his only season of college basketball with the Jayhawks. But the outpouring of support on senior night certainly played a role in his decision, one that he doesn't regret for a moment.

"It went too quick," Wiggins said late Wednesday after his own version of senior night, tucked away in a small room not far from those stands where he sat a year ago.

"I wish I had more time to stay here and do my thing, just be here with the team and the coaches and all these wonderful fans," Wiggins said, thoughtfully. "That's one of the reasons I committed here. I came here on senior night and the fans were so loyal."

Kansas coach Bill Self stayed true to his promise after an 87-52 victory over Texas Tech, reserving most of the senior day traditions for his seniors. Tarik Black, Niko Roberts and Justin Wesley were honoured with framed jerseys.

But the coach who has guided the Jayhawks to 10 straight Big 12 titles also made sure to note what everybody already knew: The latest of them probably wouldn't have happened without Wiggins.

How many trades? Nonis.

THE HOCKEY NEWS
Adam Proteau
toronto@metronews.ca

The trade deadline has come and gone and for the first time in what feels like forever, the Toronto Maple Leafs decided to not make any deals. That might make some fans antsy, especially as the team hasn't locked up a playoff berth and likely won't for weeks. But that's the wrong way to interpret GM Dave Nonis' (lack of) action. The smartest thing he could have done is to stay the course and allow this young group to continue finding their way on their own.

Yes, there'll be times this group of players looks horrendous. Indeed, the Leafs' uninspired play in their three post-Olympics losses was worrisome to fans who either dance in the streets or projectile vomit depending on the results of the day. But just when some thought it was time to call for help, the Buds scratched out a 3-2 overtime win against the Rangers. It's almost predictable how unpredictable they are.

Leafs GM David Nonis at the 2013 NHL Draft in July. Toronto remains the very same after the trade deadline this week. MIKE STOBE/GETTY IMAGES FILE

The Leafs know there are no excuses for the remainder of the season. If they falter and miss the playoffs or suffer another humiliating collapse as they did against Boston last spring, there will be changes and perhaps many. Toronto won't have a ton of cap space in the summer once they re-sign Jake Gardiner and Cody Franson, but either one of those players, as well as someone such as Nazem Kadri, could be traded to give the roster a new look. On the other hand, if they continue to hone their identity and discover what it means to be a complete team at both ends of the ice, Nonis' patience will have paid off in a big way. More importantly, they'll have sacrificed neither prospects nor draft picks in order to arrive at that point in their development.

Let 'em find their way

"The smartest thing (GM Dave Nonis) could have done is to stay the course."

That used to be the way things were in Leafs Land. Trades were made for trades' sake. Youngsters were sent packing in favour of short-term solutions (i.e. veteran players) that rarely, if ever panned out. Those moves made for great headlines and media fodder, but ultimately set back the franchise years.

It's not nearly as sexy to say you like who you are, but in many ways, it's the healthy thing to do. And for the Leafs, it's also the right thing.

♑ Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
No matter how well you have planned things, there are sure to be hold-ups and disruptions today and over the weekend. Promise yourself that you won't get angry with people who move and think slowly.

♒ Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
You are unsure whether to push ahead with a new plan or to hold back and see how things develop. Hopefully it will be the former. The longer you wait, the more likely it is others will get ahead of you.

♓ Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
Someone you are fond of has made a silly mistake and feels bad about it. Give them an uplifting pep-talk. It's what they do next that counts.
